Michele Elise, native of Montego Bay, Jamaica (by-way of Fort Lauderdale, Florida) began her career at a young age cultivating the many artistic genres in which she showed interest. This singer, songwriter (with an affinity for the art of dance) performed for years with a well known band, Earth Crisis. This band performed numerous genres of music including, reggae, soca/calypso, jazz, and blues in various sought after Miami locations and events such as the Miami Sunfest, Mangos, and Bayside. Upon moving to Atlanta to pursue her design and consulting entrepreneurship she returned to her artistic roots. In addition, working with Magnum Special Projects has enhanced her resources and tools needed to began building relationships with other industry professionals. She most recently served on the Media/Public Relations and Exhibit Design committees for the Dr. Maya Angelou's Celebrity Tribute in Atlanta. Michele considers herself blessed and highly favored to have the opportunity to lend her God given gifts to the For Colored Girls production and prays that her love for people and the arts will have a great impact upon the community... Upon the Nations.

Michele Elise is proud to represent the color Red for the For Colored Girls Host Committee. Red expresses strength and passion for life to the fullest degree. In her words, most importantly, it is Having Faith In All Things that Brings Things to Life!
